THE GRENADA SENTINEL

VOLUME LXXXV — GRENADA, MISS., THURSDAY, SEPT. 16, 1937 — NUMBER 17

Congressman A. L. Ford Spoke Here This Morning

Discussed Farm Legislation Before Congress In Address at Court House

Congressman A. L. Ford made an address before a large gathering of farmers and business men of Grenada county at the court house this morning on farm legislation now pending before Congress.

Mr. Ford let it be known that he was unquestionably against the farm bill sponsored by the Farm Bureau which is now pending in Congress. However, he stated that he was sent to Washington to represent the people of his district and if they let it be known that they wanted him to support this bill he would do so. After explaining the unfairness of this bill to the people of the cotton growing states he asked for a vote by the audience on this bill. Only three votes were registered in its favor. He then asked for a vote on voluntary control and compulsory control of cotton production. The farmers were overwhelmingly in favor of the voluntary control plan.

Mr. Ford stated that in 1932 foreign countries produced 10,000,000 bales of cotton, whereas in 1936 they produced 18,000,000, or 60% of the total production. He pointed out that the cotton farmers could not continue to reduce cotton acreage and exist while the foreign production was increasing each year. Mr. Ford is in favor of the farmers of the United States increasing their production and the government taking the surplus off their hands and dumping in on the foreign markets at the prevailing foreign price, or at a lower price. He pointed out that the government could finance this undertaking by using the money collected in tariff and customs. He stated that if the government would follow this plan it would be but a short while before we would drive our foreign competitors to the wall.

Mr. Ford had a very attentive audience and received many expressions of appreciation for the services that he has rendered the farmers of his district.

THIS WEEK—150 YEARS AGO

The Story of the Constitutional Convention of 1787

BY RAYMOND PITCAIRN

THE TASK COMPLETED

On September 17, 1787—just 150 years ago this week—the Federal Convention meeting in Philadelphia's historic Independence Hall completed what has since been described as "the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given moment by the brain and purpose of man."

It was our Constitution—that sound foundation of free government which proclaims the authority and the power of the American people in its now famous Preamble:

"WE THE PEOPLE of the United States, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

Today every ...erican knows how great a thing had been achieved in that Convention. Few, however, of the delegates who had labored through a sweltering summer realized, that day, how nobly they had builded. Many were disappointed by the result of their labors. A few hesitated or declined to sign it.

But to one—the wise and venerable Benjamin Franklin—came some vision of the glorious future which the Constitution was to ensure.

While members of the Convention were still affixing their signatures, Franklin spoke to a group of delegates clustered around him.

Pointing to the back of the President's chair, where some obscure decorator had pictured a half-disk of the sun, Poor Richard said:

"I have often and often in the course of the session, and the vicissitudes of my hopes and fears as to its issue, looked at that behind the President without being able to tell whether it was rising or setting: but now at length I have the happiness to know that it is a rising and not a setting sun."

Alexander Hamilton, of New York, joined Franklin in urging approval of the completed charter. Although on the floor of the Convention he had opposed some of its provisions, he now pleaded convincingly for "the good to be expected from the plan," whose Preamble and final draft he had helped prepare.

But it was, historians agree, the eloquence—and the vision—of Benjamin Franklin that did most to win "the unanimous consent of the States present," with the name of George Washington, "President and deputy from Virginia," leading the list of signatures.

Alexander Hamilton

Today we know that Franklin's vision was prophetic. What he witnessed was the dawn of a day brighter for America than any member of the Convention dared hope. What he foresaw was a nation risen to greatness by virtue of a Constitution which proclaimed that "We the People" were to rule. For, under that Constitution:

The United States has achieved a growth in territory, in population, in resources and in influence unrivalled among nations.

The persecuted have found Refuge . . . the despairing, Faith . . . the oppressed, Liberty . . . the courageous, Opportunity.

All men have attained the highest human aspiration—the right to be free, in body and in spirit. All children are assured the richest heritage possible—the right to be educated. All citizens are guaranteed the greatest power known—the right to govern themselves.

Under that Constitution:

The People rule. No man is King; no man a subject. Despotism is outlawed. The Will of the People is the Law of the Land.

These were results of the historic Convention which wrote our Constitution and thereby made the year 1787 outstanding in the history of human liberty.

Next Week: The Bill of Rights.

THE BURKE FAMILY

(By W. E. Boushe)

In turning back the pages, pausing ever and anon upon the names of those who have been of more than passing interest to us. Few of us who have passed the half-century mark, but who would dwell at length upon the interesting family of Dr. "Milton Pope" Burke, a family strange as well as interesting. Poor, as were most country doctors of these times, but with heads erect, honorable to the last notch, highly intellectual without presumption, could commence on any subject at any time, were delightful company. Their last loaf they were ever ready to divide. They also were of fine family connection. They were proud of the part that their family had contributed to the county's upbuilding. The father of Dr. Burke, Edward Burke, married Miss Amelia Walthall, first cousin of General E. C. Walthall. On their farm near Egypt, was Dr. Burke born. Dr. Burke was one of seven brothers to serve through the Civil War. One brother was killed at Shiloah. On coming to Grenada county, Dr. Burke settled at Providence at the headwater of Red Grass Creek. The original home of Dr. Jim Gage. The old home is now gone, but it is still a beautiful place for a home, called the home of Doctors, four having lived there. My first remembrance of it was the wonderful fish pond at the foot of the hill he had built. 'Twas the best one I have ever seen, it not only was full of fish but was used as a baptismal pool for Providence church as well, parts of the old dams are still visable. Dr. Burke also had a pet bear, finally it got to killing calves so Dr. Burge had to kill him. He sent some meat to my family. This was the only bear meat I have ever eaten. Dr. Burke was my grand father's physician. The wife of Dr. Burke was Harriet Newell Finnie. Her father also served through the Civil War. Mrs. Burke was deeply religious, she named one of her sons Spurgeon for a great Baptist preacher. She was an invalid when I knew her, but always bright and happy, loved to talk her religion as well as live it. The Burkes only read the choicest literature. Though the home was by no means fine, the walls were adorned with such books as Shakespeare, Dickens, Scott and books of like merit, the Bible always holding first place. Mrs. Burke's brother, John Finnell, was a prominent preacher. Mrs. Burke was very proud of him.

Dr. Burke was a Deacon in the Baptist church, and a prominent Mason. My family loved them all very much. They were the parents of three boys and one girl, all exceptionally intelligent, far beyond their advantages. The boy Spurgeon, who now lives at Mt. Nebo, is the only one living in Grenada county, he is a fine fellow. He married Miss Nannie V. Hill, of a good family connection from near Coffeeville. They also are the parents of representative children. Spurgeon used to run a store near where I lived when a boy. And here grand and tempting to my boyish mind were the jars of striped sticks of red and yellow candy, and many were the times Spurgeon anticipating my longing would hand me a complementary stick. None of the dollar a pound modern candy could possibly be half so good.

The next son, Luther, is as was his father, a Doctor. He married Miss Mollie Patton, a most estimable lady of a good family. The youngest son of old Dr. Burke, was Pope, a lovable man of high principles, he held the office of sheriff in Calhoun County and many other places of trust, ever acceptably. He married Miss Annie Foster, of Calhoun county, a charming lady. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pope Burke visited in our community a few days ago. While it was not my pleasure to meet her, those who did, sing her praises, she is a sweet and pretty girl and very accomplished.

Miss Hattie Talbert Burke, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Burke, was one of the best and sweetest ladies I have ever known. She was intelligent afr above the average. She spent much of her time in our home and we thought very much of her. She married Dr. M. W. Jackson, of Water Valley, a good man of excellent family of high reputation in medical profession. They had a happy home. Miss Hattie now many years dead, left a fine family, a credit to the honorable Burke family name. Old Dr. and Mrs. Burke have been dead nearly fifty years, but they still have a warm place in the hearts of the ones who remember them.

P. H. Youngblood Opens Gas System Business Here

Will Provide Grenada With Comforts Of Natural Gas

Mr. P. H. Youngblood, who only recently opened for business, announces that they now have a complete stock of gas appliances, including ranges, water heaters and room heaters on display in their showrooms located at 216 North Main Street. These appliances are for use with their gas system, which will provide the citizens of Grenada and other communities with the same comforts that are to be had by those living in the heart of our natural gas fields.

Mr. Youngblood states that "every system for supplying liquified petroleum gas to points of consumption shall be of the type that has been examined and listed by UNDERWRITERS LABORATORIES, or by some other equally recognized testing laboratory." Also, that "installation costs are negligible and operation most economical.

The public is cordially invited to visit their show rooms and let them explain how you can own your own gas system and enjoy the conveniences and comforts that are enjoyed by those who live where natural gas is available.

They are located on the northeast corner of the square in the Penn building.

Our Schools

(J. K. M.)

This week the youth of Grenada with book satchel in hand, and a smile on their young faces will be on their way back to school. Grenada is proud of her school, proud of her boys and girls. The city provides the money for buildings and teachers that keep the school abreast of any in Mississippi.

The absorbing outside interest will be the prospects for a football team. We do believe that sports, especially football are over emphasized. A good many frail boys who need development and would profit most from training will be on the side lines. More emphasis should be placed on making the weak physically strong. Too much money and too much interest are given to the boys who are selected because they are physically fit. Football is played to make a thrill for the crowd. It should teach young men that physical strength is worthwhile and that abuse lowers vitality and brings disease.

How about more training for the boys that need it? There are other games than football to develop health and strength. It is up to school authorities to see that these young fellows get their share of training.

Grenada College school bell will be silent. We regret that and hope that these splendid buildings will be put to use. Too bad to permit such an investment to remain idle.

New Hosiery Mill [illegible]hinery Is Now [illegible]g Installed

Crew of Expe[illegible] New York and Germa[illegible]ere to Direct Job

Manager, E. L. Morrow, Grenada Hosiery Mill, called twenty men for work this morning to assist in the installation of the knitting machinery at their new plant. Mr. Morrow states that more men will be put to work from time to time to assist in this work. Just as soon as the installation job is completed they plan to open their knitting school to teach the young men and women of this community the art of knitting fine hosiery.

A crew of experts from New York and Germany are here to direct the job. Mr. O. F. Schroeder, formerly of Indianapolis, Indiana, is superintendent of the plant. He made a talk at the Grenada Rotary Club luncheon on Tuesday of this week and explained in detail the manufacture of hosiery as well as the policy of his company toward labor. It impressed us as being most fair and considerate of the employee who was willing to work and learn a trade.

Eleven car loads of machinery have been received and it won't be long before Grenada's dream of a hosiery mill will be realized.

Max Gruberg Youngest Exposition Mgr.

Max Gruberg, owner and manager of the World's Exposition Shows to exhibit in Grenada, at the Fair Grounds under auspices of Grenada American Legion Post No. 35.

Mr. Gruberg is one of the youngest Carnival managers in the show business. Max, as he is favorably known among showmen and Fair Secretaries started out in life as a window washer, he later joined a Carnival company in a minor capacity, and gradually grew up with the business and by hard work and being of a saving disposition was able to start his own show, about twelve years ago. Today he is the proud owner of one of the largest collective amusement organizations in the United States.

Gruberg's World's Exposition Shows are a collection of features that have been seen at the various expositions such as Chicago Century of Progress, The Great Lakes Exposition, and The Dallas Centennial Exposition,—will open a week's engagement at Grenada, under the auspices of the Grenada American Legion Post No. 35—September 20-25th at the Fair Grounds.

The "Show Special" will arrive in Grenada Sunday evening, September 19th—coming direct from New York State Fair, a jump of two thousand miles—playing this week in Tennessee.

From the first Max made up his mind to produce and present nothing but highest class Carnival entertainment, he has never tolerated any immoral attractions of any kind—He has spared no expense in presenting this "Show Beautiful." This being the first time in Grenada, the City will undoubtedly welcome a "show of its merit."

Among the features will be seen the greatest illusion show since the day of Herman The Great—in fact the producer of the illusion is a close relative of that master illunionist. He has traveled the world in the old days with Herman, so well known all over the world.

It may interest the public to know that the "World's Exposition Shows is the only organization of its kind that carries an up-to-date 'First Class Aid Hospital' "—In addition there is a corp of uniformed guards whose sole duty is to look after the children who attend the grounds unescorted by their parents or caretakers.

Children are safe at the World's Exposition Shows. Among the most important attractions may be mentioned "The Motor Cycle Stadium where three champions may be seen doing hair raising stunts on its perpendicular walls. These are Miss Dorothy Stone, England's champion who appeared before King Edward VIII at "Oympia, London, in a "command group romance" of the Miami Motor Cycle Derby—and Speedy Dawkins, the long distance champion.

There is fun galore for both young and old and one may be assured of their safety while enjoying the "World's Exposition Shows."

U. D. C. CHAPTER TO MEET SEPTEMBER 23

"Is Your Child Ready For School?" is Asked By Dr. W. E. Noblin

Thousands of Six-Year-Olds Awaiting Their First School Days

"Is your child ready for school?" asked Dr. W. E. Noblin, Hinds county health officer, of a large and interested audience in Jackson, Saturday. "The advent of fall finds thousands of six-year-olds, 700 in Jackson alone, awaiting their first school days," Dr. Noblin said.

The health officer continued, "while such a child is thrilling to new experience, he is in reality about to undergo an ordeal. Having been the center of his little world since birth, he suddenly finds himself one among many. It is no longer what HE wants but what THEY want that must come first. From a carefree life spent for the most part following his own desires, he finds that he must apply himself to new and strange tasks, learning at the same time to live peaceably with others. Surely this is a time to test the studiest youngster.

"Again, his young body must adjust itself to new conditions. He has been used to play each day in the fresh air and health-giving sunshine, romping perhaps with a few children of his own age. Now he will spend most of the daylight hours indoors. He will be in close contact with a great many children. His young body must become accustomed to unusual conditions of work and living. It must defend itself against more frequent exposures to the diseases of childhood.

"Special safeguards are needed at this time. Watchful attention is necessary both at home and school if the health of the child's body and mind are to be protected. The degree of health that a child is to enjoy is determined to a much larger extent than most parents realize by the day-today attention they give him. Success demands daily thought about the kind of food he eats, the amount of rest he gets, the character of his exercise, and his habits of elimination and cleanliness.

"Long hours of sound sleep—carefree play in sunshine and fresh air—an abundance of wholesome food balanced with fresh vegetables, fruit, and milk! These are the physical needs of the healthy, alert, normal school child.

"He is not only preparing to assume the serious obligations of home, business, and community. He is living the most impressionable, vivid period of his life. Happy school days become the 'dear old golden rule days' of the well-known song. They are the cherished heritage, the priceless memory of later years. Give your child the health to make the most of them!"

Adventure Is Coming In The American Boy

Readers who like adventure and the lure of far places will find plenty to please them in coming issues of THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine. They'll read, for instance, of seamen and sabotage and San Francisco water-front trouble; of daring adventure in the world of pseudo-science, and on a feud aboard a plunging, rolling battleship.

They'll read, too, of excitement aboard a transport plane blaring over jungled Mexican mountains, and of stranger planes that are not bound to earth but swing through the noiselessness of space. Readers can follow a young ex-Mountie as he searches for clues in the wild northlands, and Tierney, the pie-eating detective, on the trail of city criminals.

A new feature in THE AMERICAN BOY is picture pages that tell stories. Pictures, for instance, that vividly show a day in the life of a coast guardsman, and how an Eskimo husky sled dog does his work. They transmit the thrill of battling a hundred pound, water-churning tarpon. Tips on how to run a broken field to how to be correct in a ballroom!

NOTE: Subscription prices of THE AMERICAN BOY will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect: one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00. Foreign subscriptions 50c a year extra. Send your name, address and remittance to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. On newsstands the price is 15c a copy.

BIRTHDAY OF THE CONSTITUTION

"We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution of the United States of America."

With the above preamble America's government was planned and established 150 years ago.

On September 17 of this year we observe the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution, that document under which has grown the most perfect civilization ever created by man. Under the Constitution there has been created better living, more of the comforts and luxuries of life, for more people than anywhere else in the world. Under the Constitution there has grown a land of opportunity, drawing millions of people from other countries to our shores.

Our streets are not paved with gold, as so many of those who came to our shores believed, but there has existed and does exist today golden opportunity and liberty for one and all.

What has been the foundation of the vast progress of America in the short space of 150 years? What lies at the bottom of our vast opportunities? How is it that we have built great industries that pay the highest wages in the world and where men work shorter hours than elsewhere? How is it that we have the world's highest living standards? Why do more people own their own homes in America? How is it that we have more schools for the education of our children and that there are more hospitals for the sick?

Because behind all of these stands one thing—the Constitution of the United States, which today, as 150 years ago, guarantees freedom, liberty, opportunity for all.

No other document in the history of the world has given:

1. Religious freedom.
2. Freedom of speech.
3. Freedom of the press.
4. Freedom of assembly, the right to get together at any time.
5. The right to petition the government to right wrongs.
6. The right to vote and choose our own governing officials.
7. The right to work, using our earnings for ourselves and our families and to hold property which we acquire.
8. The right of citizenship and of equal protection of the law. No political group can pass a law removing the right of citizenship of any class or group.

These are but a few of the protections which the Constitution guarantees to every American through a government of three independent parts—the Legislative, headed by the Congress; the Executive, headed by the President; the Judiciary, headed by the Supreme Court.

Under the Constitution and this form of government, which it lays out, America and Americans have progressed as no other nation and no other people. So long as we respect and support the Constitution, so long as we hold it sacred as the foundation of the nation in which 130,000,000 people enjoy life at its best, so long as we strive to preserve the principles of the Constitution, that long will we remain a nation and a people envied by the world.

THE WORLD'S EXPOSITION SHOWS

The World's Exposition Shows will show in Grenada next week under the auspices of American Legion Post No. 35. We were asked to allow placards to be placed in our show window advertising the event. At first we declined. Our reason being that we do not want to use our show windows or news columns to advertise any event that would tend to encourage gambling or immorality in any of its phases. No, we do not pretend to lead anyone to believe that we hold ourselves up as a "walking delegate" to a revival meeting. We do a lot of things which we would advise others not to do. We were told that we had hurt our standing with the American Legion and would lose advertising thereby. Be that as it may. Our reply was that we would have to suffer the consequences and that we did not want any advertising or other business for which we had to sacrifice a principle.

We quote from our editorial columns of July 22:

Grenada has had her Horse Show and it was a success. It was good clean entertainment. The fair grounds are for community affairs which tend to encourage agriculture. It was not the intention of Grenada County autorities that the fair grounds should be used to encourage gambling and vice in all its ramifications.

We have been holding so called fairs in Grenada for the past several years. The only reason they have been called fairs was to allow the carnival companies to escape payment of privilege taxes. These carnivals come into our county and pay no privilege taxes whatsoever, except the amusement tax. To collect the actual amount of amusement tax that they are liable for a representative of the state must be on the ground day and night. They use every means under the sun to evade the payment of their just taxes. They steal from the negroes who have worked hard all year to make a crop. They steal from everyone who patronizes them.

Instead of our so called fair each year The Sentinel suggests that we make the Horse Show an annual event. It is a clean entertainment and everyone gets just what he pays for.

We have been assured by both the Commander of the American Legion Post No. 35 and a representative of the World's Exposition Shows that this show is not of the type referred to in our editorial of July 22 and that there will be no gambling concessions or indecent shows. We were further advised that the World's Exposition Shows is not a carnival but a caravan of interesting and educational entertainments. We have taken them at their word. Their placards will be seen in our show window and our news columns are open to the American Legion in promoting the event.

Let the people be the judge.

MISSISSIPPI FARM NEWS

The bureau of agricultural economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that this year's combined harvest of the four important feed grains—corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums—will be the largest since 1932. At the same time, livestock numbers have been materially reduced. So, the supply of feed grains head of grain consuming livestock will be the highest in any of the past fifteen years with the possible exception of the seasons following the harvest of 1926 and 1932.

The outlook for the dairymen this fall and winter is brighter than it was a year ago. Pastures are better. Milk production is up. Butter prices are likely to average higher. Feed grains and hay promise to be more plentiful, especially if farmers can harvest their hay crops. The relation between the cost of feed and prices of dairy products are more favorable.

The supply of grain fed cattle available for slaughter during the remainder of the year is small. Indications are that prices will be well maintained throughout the fall and early winter months. However, with a big corn crop in sight, cattlemen are planning to feed more cattle and prices of finished cattle next year are likely to decline from present levels, according to market forecasts. This fall and early winter will probably be a good time for cattlemen to sell livestock ready for market.

Many poultrymen find that it pays to put cockerels on feed for about two weeks, just before marketing. Research work done by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture shows that young cockerels put on more weight for each dollars' worth of fattening ration, but the older cockerels have a larger proportion of choice breast and leg meat both before and after fattening.

Farmers who plant winter legumes this fall and plow them under next spring and follow with corn and cotton can count on about 20 per cent more corn and 40 per cent more cotton per acre next fall. Planting winter legumes such as burr clover, hairy vetch and Austrian peas, is the surest method of controlling erosion during the winter months and of increasing crop yields the following season. And, farmers whose soil building allowance is high enough will receive a soil building payment of $1.50 per acre. This will pay a substantial part of the cost of seeding these crops.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the states has made a successful fight against tuberculosis in cattle. On September 1, New Jersey was placed on the modified accredited list, to become the 45th state in the United States to reduce T. B. infection in its herds to one-half of one percent or less. Only three states are left to be finished: New York, South Dakota, and California.

Enterprising Mississippi farmers are finding out that their farm woodlands may be made to yield a crop each year if they practice good woodland management and selective cutting. Only the trees that are ready for harvest are cut and the thrifty and more desirable younger trees are left to grow. The work of cutting can be done during the winter time and helps to provide work the year around.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, prized by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

32 Million Hens Die In '36, Loss Increases Yearly

The poultryman's most perplexing problem is the increasing rate of mortality among adult chickens, says J. D. Sykes, extension poultry specialist of State College. A survey of the 10 states having more than half of all the hens in the country shows that pullet losses during the first laying year increased from an average of about 11 out of every 100 in 1925 to about 19 in 1936, or a total mortality in 1936 of 32 million hens valued at $43,500,000.

The disease, leucosis, the common symptoms of which are paralysis of the legs or wings or grayish discoloration of the eyes with blindness, is considered one of the main causes of the high mortality of adult chickens. Little is known about its control.

Since scientists have already learned a great deal about the control of pullorum disease, fowl pox, bronchitis, and other diseases and parasites of chickens, Berley Winton, poultryman of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, suggests that poultry research men now plan a long-time, coordinated, counry-wide research program in which all will work together to find ways to control leucosis. He says the solution of adult poultry mortality will be reached through scientific research in poultry husbandry and in disease of poultry.

In the meantime, many poultrymen need to place more emphasis on sanitation in the management of their chickens.

Study the Label On Agricultural Seeds Before Purchasing

Make Sure of Good Seed and Money's Worth Before Buying, Advises Holton

Close attention to the label by farmers contemplating the purchase of planting seed with particular respect to seeds of winter legumes, will do much to insure full value for money expended and save disappointments that follow the use of seeds of poor quality and germination, according to J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture.

Mississippi has made remarkable progress in production of major crops by reason of soil improvements through the use of legumes and by judicious fertilization. Purchases of winter legume seed this year are expected to reach record proportions. The amount of money that must necessarily be expended is considerable and farmers who use care in buying only the best of seeds will make a long step towards securing a satisfactory crop. Familiarity with the various grades of seeds offered for sale is frequently necessary, and the following is suggested as a tentative outline of such grades:

Austrian Winter Peas: top grade, purity 98 percent, germination 90 per cent and better; second grade, purity 89 per cent, and germination 85 per cent and better; third grade, purity 98 per cent, and germination 80 per cent or less. Mixed peas and vetch contain 85 per cent to 92 per cent Austrian peas, and 5 per cent to 7 per cent vetches. Germination percentage of Austrian peas and vetch include hard seed.

Imported Hairy Vetch: top grade, purity 97 per cent, 90 per cent and better germination.

Domestic Hairy Vetch: Top grade, purity 98 per cent all vetches, of which 95 per cent is guaranteed Hairy, germination 90 per cent and better; second grade, purity 98 per cent all vetches, and from 85 per cent to 92 per cent Hairy Veteh, germination 90 per cent and better. The second grade must be labeled a mixture.

Domestic Hungarian Vetch: top grade, purity 98 per cent all vetches, 85 per cent Hungarian Vetch guaranteed, 90 per cent and better germination; second grade, 98 per cent purity, all vetches, 80 per cent Hungarian Vetch guaranteed, and 90 per cent or better germination; third grade, purity 98 per cent all vetches, 50 per cent to 60 per cent Hungarian guaranteed, and germination 90 per cent or better Hungarian Vetches containing less than 95 per cent Hungarian Vetch must be labeled a mixture.

"Careful observation of the tags required by the Mississippi seed law may save farmers many disappointments," stated Commissioner Holton, "and we shall do everything within our power to so execute the law that the guarantee on the tag may mean just what it says."

AN INTERVIEW WITH FARMERS

(J. K. M.)

It is not what the fellow in the city thinks of the outcome of the cotton crop but what the farmers think. They are the folks that will make the wheels of commerce go to humming. We want the city folks to know what they are thinking and then the farmer subscribers would no doubt be interested in what their neighbors are feeling about the general situation.

As I write this, (on Saturday), the sun is shining, the breeze that is blowing is cool and refreshing. May be, and here is hoping, that we will have a number of days of sun shine and that it will bring joy and profit to the farmers of Grenada county.

Mr. Sel Roane, Tallahathcie farmer, home in Grenada, not so optimistic about the cotton crop, bottom crop badly damaged, been careful about the picking while wet. Says he has a good crop of old corn and he will put the hands in the field to gather that next week and give the cotton field time to dry out.

Think that cotton seed situation especially bad for the tenants as that is where they get some cash, last year got about $10 on every bale and this year guessing. Got his hay cut in July unusually early and has stored ample to run the farm another season.

Mr. Frank Gibbs says that he thinks there is a damage to at least 25 per cent of the cottonseed where the cotton has opened. He estimated the damage to cotton around 25 per cent. He thinks there is some damage to corn also.

Mr. Vassar Dubard returned recently from a 1500 mile trip to Texas. He says that on his journey through a big cotton belt that he found the cotton crop a fine average. He thinks the rains spotted, says conditions around Itta Bena not like those up at Drew and even up at Pope mighty little rain. Many of the farmers and business men think that the Government overestimates for we think in terms of local conditions. Vassar is in accord with the 9 cent loan and the subsidy plan. He was asked by the Agricultural Department to meet with a farmer group at Jackson recently and was Chairman of one of the committees. He stated that his committee was not in favor of pegging the price as that has proved disastrous. The committee recommended a 9 cent loan and a subsidy to permit cotton to flow freely in the world market so that we will not have a big surplus to pile up as a constant threat to the market.

I met Mr. Ross Clanton coming out of the Courthouse before the day was well started. County Agent Cooley asked how about the crop, he says damaged very little, think I am going to make 25 per cent more than I thought I would make a few weeks ago. Now that is an optimist, some folks say farmers are always thinking in terms of pessimism.

Rat Campaigns Are Urged Now

State College, Miss.—Now is the time for fighting rats, advises Robert B. Dean of the U. S. Biological Survey, who is in charge of rat control in Mississippi, cooperating with the State Plant Board and state extension service. The rats tend to gather in homes and warehouses in larger numbers during the fall and winter than at any other time, making conditions ideal for poisoning them.

Rats continue to destroy about $3,500,000 worth of property in Mississippi every year, much of which could be prevented, according to Mr. Dean, as they can be poisoned so cheaply and safely that every town or community should take up the fight against them. The campaigns conducted in Mississippi have usually cost about $25 to $35 for each thousand population, or about ten cents for each property treated, being supervised by the Biological Survey and State Plant Board free of charge.

The campaigns are also very safe as red squill, the poison used, is harmful only to rats. It is mixed with several kinds of foods attractive to rats and placed in locations frequented by the pests. In nearly all cases the rats are affected slowly and have time to get out in the open before they die.

Cities, towns, or communities desiring free assistance with rat campaigns or individuals wanting information about rat control should write immediately to Robert B. Dean, Biological Survey, State College, Miss., or contact the nearest State Plant Board inspector.

$50,000 Federal Wild-Life-Restoration Funds for Mississippi

Act Effective July 1, 1938, Will Require State to Put One-Fourth of Amount

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 15—Assurance of Mississippi sharing in approximately $50,000 federal wildlife-restoration funds was given today by Col. Reuben R. Banks, State Game and Fish Commissioner, of Columbus, in announcing approval by President Roosevelt of the federal aid act.

The act, which becomes effective July 1, 1938, will require the state to put up one-fourth of the amount to be made available on a license sale and area basis.

A state's participation will follow its assent to the provisions of the act and also will depend on its enactment of liwdlife conservation laws "which shall include a prohibition against the diversion of license fees paid by hunters" for any other purpose than the administration of the state game and fish department.

"We are now making a survey to determine tentative locations of the proposed wildlife-restoration projects to be made posible under the bill," Col. Banks said. "The program contemplates no additional personnel."

"Wildlife-restoration projects to be financed by the new funds will include the selection, acquisition and development of areas for wildlife and also research on wildlife-management problems," Col. Banks explained. "It is also designed to increase cooperation between federal and state officials in matters affecting migratory-bird conservation."

"Outstanding and ultimate benefit of the new program will be the restoration of land and water areas to the uses of wildlife," the commissioner said. "Land is essential to any program for the improvement of wildlife conditions."

Outstanding features of the new set-up, as outlined to the state officials by the U. S. Biological Survey, follow:

Funds from federal taxes on firearms and ammunition will for the first time be available for improving wildlife conditions; hunting-license fees of participating states will be used solely for wildlife purposes; money for the improvement of wildlife conditions will be spent in accordance with a carefully planned program, and federal participation in wildlife-conservation measures is extended to those involving resident and upland species, as well as migrants.

The new law, sponsored by the General Wildlife Federation and other conservation groups, including the Mississippi department, authorizes appropriations equal to revenue derived from federal taxes on firearms, shells, and cartridges, for a federal-state wildlife program. Tax receipts in previous years indicate that the funds may total about $3,000,000 annually.

Farmers Find It Difficult to Save Hay This Fall

As farmers are finding it difficult to save hay on account of the almost incessant rains, L. A. Higgins, extension dairy specialist o. State College, says such crops as soybeans, cowpeas and alfalfa may be saved without loss as silage.

Harvesting for silage may be done regardless of the weather. The entire plant can be saved. The total volume and feed value of the crops will be greater. Ensiling saves more of the valuable vitamins and proteins. The feeding of silage promotes milk production and will enable the dairyman to reduce the cost of protein concentrates, says Higgins.

However, Higgins warns growers against ensiling legume crops alone. Soybeans, cowpeas, alfalfa and other legume crops, he says, may be safely saved as silage by ensiling with either corn or sorghum provided they do not form over 20 to 25 percent of the total volume and the legume crops are thoroughly mixed with the corn or sorghum.

It is highly desirable that all crops mature at the same time, since in many instances this will not be possible, Higgins recommends cutting the main silage crop at the right time and the others as near the option stage as practicable.

Where crops become too mature for producing the best quality of hay and it is necessary or advisable to store as silage, Higgins recommends that 70 to 90 pounds of molasses be mixed with each ton of silage. He says the molasses will prevent the development of undesirable bacteria and the breaking down of the proteins into other less desirable compounds.

Press notices, which were stated as unofficial, placed the tentative budget for the biennium 1938-1940 at thirty-five million dollars, while prominent officials disclaimed knowledge of a budget of this size. However, even if the budget for 1938-1940 reached these figures it would not be out of line with former budgets in years of similar conditions and prices.

During the four years cited, the State of Mississippi was selling bonds for various purposes as necessary, and as demanded by the people, to make certain improvements, to-wit: to build Mississippi State Hospital for the Insane, to improve and add to the buildings at the University and Colleges, etc. The State was selling bonds instead of paying them off.
